DETAILED ACTION

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on October 10, 2006 has been entered.

Response to Amendment

2. The Second Supplemental Declaration under 37 CFR 1.132 filed on October 10, 2006 is insufficient to overcome the rejection of claims 6-9 based upon rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) over JP 10-053010 in view of YOSHIKAWA et al. (US 4,872,932) as set forth in the last Office action because: The photos submitted with the Declaration were scanned into the Application file and the Examiner is not able to consider them since the quality of the scan is very poor. Therefore, the Examiner is not able to consider all the evidence showing the unexpectedly superior results argued by Applicants. Applicants are advised to submit the photos as an artifact to the case, so that they are available in their original form during the examination of the application.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed October 10, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Art Unit: 1771

a. Applicant's arguments depend on the submitted Declaration under 1.132, but as explained above, the Examiner was not able to fully examine the evidence provided. Therefore, the rejections of claims 6-9 is maintained herein for the reasons of record.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 5. Claims 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious over JP 10-053010 in view of YOSHIKAWA et al. (US 4,872,932) as stated in previous office action.

The JP 10-053010 reference teaches the use of unwoven fabric (non-woven fabric) in a rubber-filament complex of a fiber reinforced member layer in a pneumatic radial tire. (Abstract) Figure 1 shows a tire structure that includes a fiber reinforcement member layer 8a, 8b between the carcass layer 2 and sidewall rubber 7a, 7b. [0024] The JP'010 reference uses a conjugation of a non-vulcanized rubber composition for fiber, teaches using solvents and also methods that involve providing a tackiness (adhesive) to the nonwoven fabric. The reference teaches that when adhesion is inadequate, it is sufficient to perform dipping heat-setting processing to a filament fiber like the case where the adhesive power of the fiber cord for tires and rubber is heightened [0022]-[0023]

The JP'010 fails to teach that rubber is adhered to the nonwoven of the reinforcement layer by coating the nonwoven with a metal or metallic compound by PVD or CVD.

YOSHIKAWA et al. discloses a method for preparing rubbery composite materials and teaches that a metal such as zinc, copper, cobalt, and an alloy thereof can be integrated into a rubber composition to form a rubbery composite material exhibiting a firm bond between the components by press bonding the metal at a temperature which approximate to the temperature at which the rubber composition is usually heated for vulcanization; that these material can be readily deposited on a substrate as a thin film by a dry plating process such as vacuum deposition, ion plating, DC and RF magnetron sputtering, bipolar sputtering and RF sputtering processes; and that a rubber composition can firmly bond to the resulting metal thin film. (See Column 3 lines 34-45) The Yoshikawa et al. reference discloses that methods that involve adhesive bonding pose problems including coating consideration such as adherent pretreatment and adhesive maintenance, problems with the use of solvents, among others. (Col. 1, lines 54 through Col. 2, lines 1-54) The reference further teaches that the substrates that can be used in the practice of their invention are not particularly limited with respect to their material type, shape, and size, and that these may be properly selected depending on the intended application. (See Column 5, lines 18-41) Further, the reference teaches that the rubbery composite materials of their invention will find wide applications in steel tires, conveyor belts, and hoses, among others. (Column 4, lines 62-64)

Since both references are directed to materials used in the tire industry, the purpose disclosed by '932 would have been recognized in the pertinent art of JP'010.

It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the reinforcement layer and substitute it with the composite material of '932 in which the nonwoven is treated by PVD to adhere the rubber coating motivated by the desire of improving the adherence of the composite without the need of adhesive material or solvents as taught by the '932 (above).
